Looking At All Sides

WELCOME ALL!

Jill Lafferty tries to escape from the camera while Brian Moore basks in the glow of the flash. When there was nothing else to do, Brian liked to show off to his classmates.

SENIORS ROCK!!

Elizabeth McHaffa, Amy Lucas, Jon Sims, T.J. Hughes, Tim Hipkins, Mike Bond, Philip Coggins, Jeff Baska, Ashanti Wilson, Ryhan Golden, and Kristin Fauber cheer on the football team. Although there was not a spirit stick award this year, students still cheered their hardest.

KEEP IT BETWEEN THE LINES
Boots Howdyshell, Ricky Truslow, Willy Hallman, Heidi Denoncourt, Noel Young, A.D. Campbell, Brandi Hatfield, and Letisha Sorrells help add color to the school walls. This was just one of WECEP's projects throughout the year.

HOT WHEELS

Josh Ellinger rides across the gym in a relay during the fall sports pep rally. After attempting to devour a whipped cream pie, Josh helped lead the senior relay team to victory.

THE INSIDE SCOOP

WHAT REALLY HAPPENS...

Although many of our athletic programs were publicized often throughout the year, there were many other nonathletic school activities that seemed to go unnoticed. The band and choral departments had opportunities to perform and compete all over the United States: Show Choir went to DisneyWorld and the band went to Atlanta. The Flag Squad, which consisted of 10-12 girls, worked five days a week on new routines that helped liven up the band's showcase of musical numbers. Many teachers enhanced academic spirit by offering hands-on experiences rather than ninety-minute lectures. Once a month was Club Day during which students got the chance to be members of different groups, such as SCA, Science, Math 600, SODA, Civil War Round Table, and NAHS. These clubs participated in activities which often went unnoticed. The Drama Club, in conjunction with the Choral Department, performed the Broadway musical Annie. With so many different sides of school life, how could life ever get boring?

TOOT YOUR HORN

Members of the band fire up the students before the Homecoming football game. The band took it upon themselves to help lift school spirit.

READY, AIM, FIRE!!
Eric Fitzgerald shows his bow and arrow to his class. Mr. Goforth assigned activities so students could work with their hobbies and interests.

CHIN UP
Katie Yoder shows what really goes on behind the scenes when seniors get their pictures taken. Senior pictures were one of her senior expenses.

STRIKE A POSE
Clayton Fitzgerald demonstrates a few dance moves at one of the sock hops after a football game. The Academic Booster and the Sportsman Clubs were the two sponsors of these sock hops.

SPIRIT
Brett Gayer, Erin Campbell, Holly Harman, and Tonya Ruleman pretend to be cheerleaders as they form a pyramid to show off their school spirit. Inside Out Day was part of the Homecoming Spirit Week during which students enjoyed wearing their clothes "Inside Out".

ON A ROLL
Rodney Nice and Kevin Cline are trying to win the log roll race. This was one of the activities members of the FFA could participate in during their Field Day.

KNOW IT INSIDE OUT

Academics

Artist at work

While in art class, Ashanti Wilson paints on the wall near Guidance. Whenever there was not a class assignment to be completed, students worked on designs made by advanced painting and drawing students. It had been several years since anyone had tried to add color to our hallways.

Getting it perfect

In art class Jon Burkholder, Jonathan Sims and Derek Hanger concentrate on getting their flat for Annie just right. Art students spent several weeks of class time working on these in order to have all the props finished in time.

Caught in the act

Leslie Fielding and Suzette Cook are caught studying in the halls for exams.

The little red engine

As Billy Carter explains the workings of a fire engine, David Baker, Forrest Johnson, Josh Martin, and Frankie Chambliss listen attentively.

Mr. Tom Goforth's English 12 students were allowed to show and tell about anything that interested them. Carolyn Riddle even brought in her pet boa constrictor!

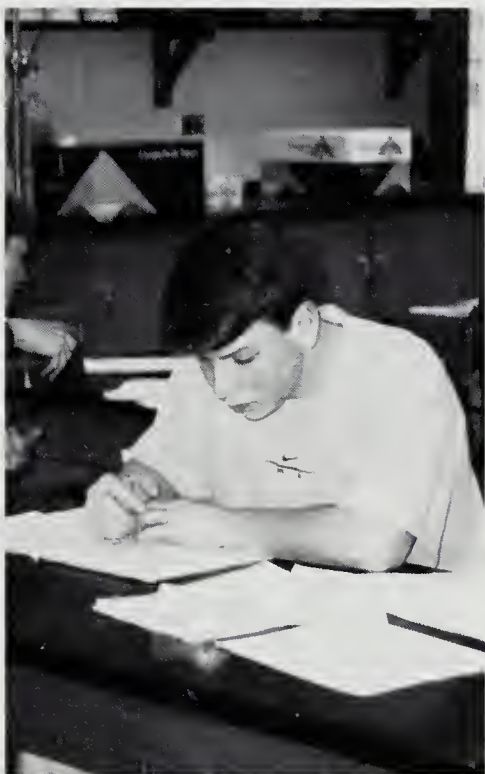

Getting assistance

During her study hall, Faith Patterson receives help with her homework from Mrs. Mary Sprouse. Mrs. Sprouse was not only an extra pair of hands and feet for Faith, but for everyone around her, too.

Hitting the books

Finding a spare moment in class, Gary Eavers begins his homework. Freshmen commented that their classes in high school were easier than in middle school because they had time to start their homework during class.

Leslie said, "It helped me a lot to study for exams with friends because it made the long hours fun."

Mr. Bubbles

Jason Almarode and the instructor Ben Sherman scrutinize a square of soap stone, trying to find the sculpture within. Several students skipped their studies to complete a soap stone sculpture of their own.

Inside Edition

The inside scoop on the yearbook.

Cropping, layouts, spreads, taking pictures. The first all-girl yearbook staff was hard at work trying to put together the perfect yearbook.

Another first was the use of telemarketing for book sales, along with a contest to win a free yearbook and fifty dollars.

Mrs. Patty Phillips made the decision after six years of teaching Photojournalism that this was to be her final year of teaching this class.

HARD AT WORK!

Kylene Kiser is working hard to write captions. Kylene was the assistant editor on the staff.

TEAM WORK!

Best friends Kim Oliver and Jill Lafferty share funny stories and jokes as they work together on their spreads.

Whenever somebody needed help with their work, Kim and Jill were there.

THE WINNER IS...

Editor Sara Greenmun presents Philip Coggins with a $50 check. Philip was the winner of the cash prize drawing for the one day yearbook sale.

ALL SMILES!

Carrie Fielding smiles as she breaks from cropping. Being one of the sports trainers, Carrie was a big help with providing information for the sports pages.

STUDY HARD!

Alicia Ratwik studies the photos as Michelle Henry puts tabs on them. It was difficult for the staff to find good usable pictures for the yearbook.

Swinging Sounds Surface from School Silence

With a toot-toot and a tap-tap band travels to the top

The band was busy raising spirits at football and basketball games. Any student that appeared at a band-attended sports event left with a tune embedded in his brain.

With uniforms and flaring flags, the flag squad stepped with the band's uplifting music. They gave a spectacular half time show that left the audience with a taste of jazz.

The stands were swinging as the band and flags brought excitement to those boring half time minutes.

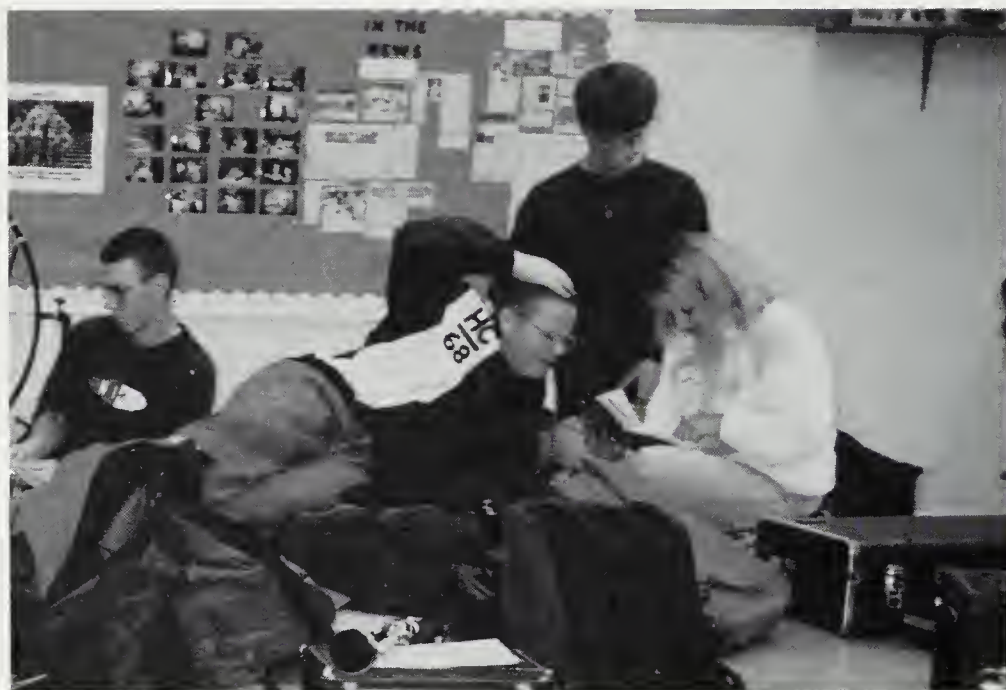

RECORDINGS FROM THE REBOUND
Clarinet player, Krystle Cairns, is one of the members of the pep band who performed at basketball games. Songs such as "Wooly Bully", "Go Cougars", and "Hey Baby" rang throughout time outs and half times.

Puckered Out

Doug Bunch spouts out words of instruction to an eager band. The band had two field commanders, Doug and Brian Moore, who helped Mr. Taylor give countless excellent performances.

BEAT IT

JUST A FEW POINTERS

Mr. James Taylor squats and directs, hence the term band director. Football game intermissions and band competitions required great perserverance and plenty of instruction. Concert band won fourth place and the percussion assemble second place in Atlanta.

ALWAYS COCA-COLA

Curtis Hall and Curtis Conner relax and drink a cardboard Coke. While in Atlanta band students toured the Coke factory and had the opportunity to see how one of America's favorite drinks came in to being.

A FLAG RAISING EXPERIENCE

Glaring because of the sweltering sun, Tassi Snelson stops to take a break. The flag squad traveled to Atlanta with the band and won first place in its competition.

Getting Technical

Cars, Computers, and Cosmetology

From styling hair, to building homes, to inventing computer programs, the Valley Vocational Technical Center has a variety of classes to offer students. Not only does it serve as the technical center, but it is also the site of Shenandoah Valley Regional Governor's School. Going to Tech helps students expand their skills in a certain career goal, while Governor's School lets students improve their knowledge of mathematics and science.

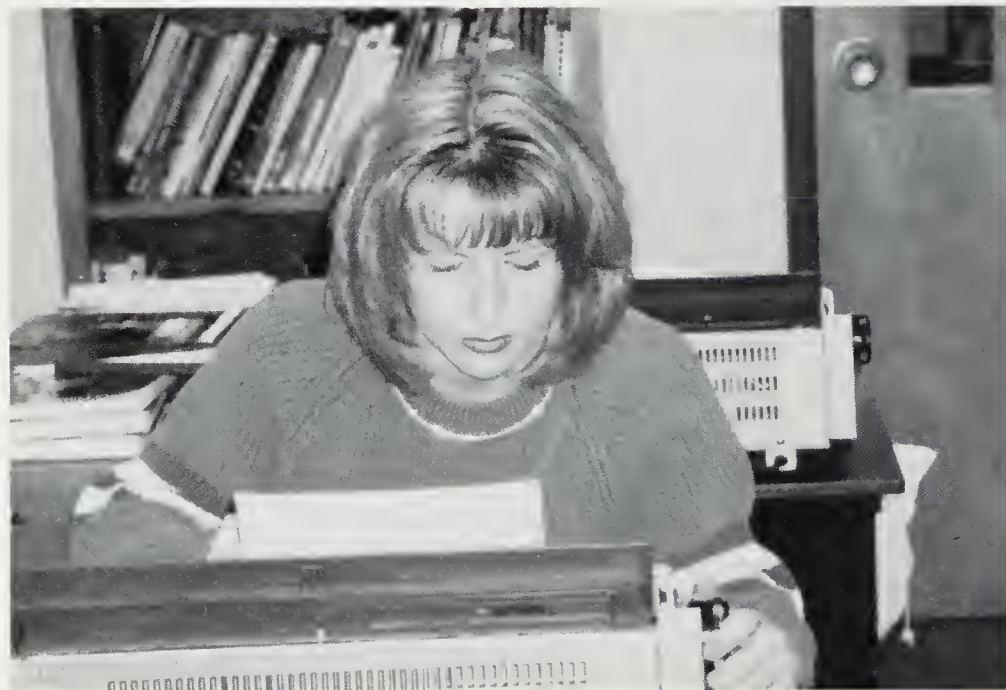

FOLLOWING DIRECTIONS

Double-checking his hard work, Mark Huffinan looks at the master plan. Tech allowed students to do projects on their own to test their abilities.

CLIP AND CURL

Sarah Simonsen concentrates hard while styling a classmate's hair. Students in cosmetology practiced on mannequins first, then were given hands-on experience.

TYPE AWAY

Jessica Smith lines up her paper to type a report. Learning the correct hands position was an essential part of the office administrations department.

SPICK AND SPAN

Daniel Reed washes off a tire for a car he is repairing. Students in the automotive department were asked to wear safety goggles to prevent foreign objects from getting in their eyes.

WORKING TOGETHER

Chis Schartiger writes down the answers to a problem as Gabe McGann works on the computer. Students at Governor's School got the opportunity to work with students from all over the valley.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT
Brett Gayer carefully puts drops into a beaker. Conducting his own experiments was an advantage to attending Governor's School.

PATIENCE
Ernest Liptrap works with intensity on the lathe, hoping he cuts correctly. Mechanics class required both organizational skills and hard work.

DRIVING NAILS
Hoping he does not smash his finger, Josh Martin looks up at the camera as Shane Bartley supervises. The carpentry department built a house that was then sold and transported to its new location.

Movin' Hands and Feet

Beautiful voices and snappy choreography a hit with all

The Show Choir, with Ms. Kelly Lowe teaching and leading them, has traveled to Disney World in Florida for the past few years, as well as presenting two concerts a year for the public to enjoy. Students can hear them practice every morning during first block. From such selections as "You Must Love Me" to "Little Shop of Horrors," their lovely and delightful voices linger in the halls.

WAVING ARMS

Practicing some steps for a song, Misty Fitzgerald, Christy Bailes, David Lee Thompson, Laura Wyrick, and Kristy McClain put their arms way out. Choreography was a big part of a performance, which took a long time to get everyone together.

UP CLOSE AND PERSONAL

Showing their pearly whites, Chrissy Buchanan and Diana Deeds fan their arms. This was very challenging because if one person got off, the whole thing messed up.

KNOWING THE MOVES

Concentrating, Andrea Lee, Elizabeth Lambert, Diana Deeds, Janice Woodard, and Brooke Driver try to remember which move is next. This was Andrea's first year in concert choir.

HITTING THE NOTES

Singing along with the music, David Lee Thompson and Leah Pugh make their voices carry. In the spring show, David Lee sang a duet with Sara Burritt.

STRIKE A POSE

Sherri Brooks, Leah Pugh, Melony Crummett, Jeff Carr, Greg Hess, Grant Burkholder, Erin Campbell, Sara Burritt, and Scott Yancey scrunch together and lean forward. Grant said that they had to be careful when dancing on the risers because one was broken already.

PRACTICING FOR IT ALL
 Sherri Brooks, Sara Burritt, Leah Pugh, Jeff Carr, and Laura Wyrick get their form down pat. Laura said, "Please get a picture of me."

BRING IT ON
 Singing a song, Mike Trippeer, Annie Shirley, and Kristy McClain do all of the little moves. They were singing to "Dancing in the Street."

LEARNING TO BREATHE
 Gathered around chorus teacher Ms. Kelly Lowe, Sherri Brooks, Erin Campbell, and Diana Deeds read the words to a piece of music while singing along. After the song was over, Ms. Lowe told them in which spots to breathe.

Working towards the Future...

Two Clubs, One Goal

Community awareness was an important concept in FFA and FHA. Adopt a Highway was just one of the many projects they were involved in together. For fun, each club went to the Virginia State Fair. On the serious side, personal growth and career success were promoted. FFA and FHA's goals were to make a positive difference in the lives of not only the members in the clubs, but also in the community.

WREATH TIME

Jessica Kohler displays the wreath which she made in class. The wreaths were an example of making a gift that had a personal touch and was inexpensive to make.

LET THE GOOD TIMES ROLL

BABY BUSINESS

Tracie Kline learns the responsibilities of having a baby. Students in the Work and Family Studies class got to spend time with babies and learn their daily routines.

SORTING THINGS OUT

Daniel Sturdivant and Nick Coffey are going through the oranges to look for bad ones. As usual, the FFA members did very well with their citrus sales.

Simmons, D. Johnson, N. Owens, S. Sterrett.

LYING DOWN ON THE JOB

Jamie Brooks is taking it easy during the FFA bash. He was waiting for the horseshoe activities to begin.

The Science Side

A year full of projects and experiments.

The science department was full of things to do. The chemistry in the community classes did labs on water filtration and experimented with glass bending. In biology classes students learned about the four main things necessary for life by doing the habitat lap sit in which the whole class would gather in a circle and sit on each other's laps. They would then take one person out but try not to fall. The classes also dissected cats. Most agreed that science can be fun.

ADJUSTING THINGS

Tim Curry and Mike Cook adjust the ring stand while doing an experiment in chemistry in the community. They thought the labs were the best part of the class.

CONCENTRATING HARD

Taking a practice exam, Jennifer Lowery, Carla Campbell, Jessie Patterson, Ryan Pittman, and Shawn Baska listen to Mr. Patterson. "It was very hard," said Shawn.

MAY THE CIRCLE BE UNBROKEN

Doing a habitat lap sit, Christy Bailes, Tabitha Vernier, Kevin Cline, Tanya Wills, Brenda Hartless, Ms. Julie King, Josh Isaksen, Brent Tayman, Erica Hyden, Maria Sanchez, and Joni Stuart try not to fall. Ms. King made her point easy to see.

TAKING A BREAK

During earth science class, Joe Almarode gets distracted by the camera. Freshmen were required to decide between earth science and biology, knowing they would eventually have to take both.

SIFTING THINGS OUT

In chemistry in the community, Sherry Mays, Lacie White, and Katie Yoder filter solutions as a lab project. "The class was fun," said Katie.

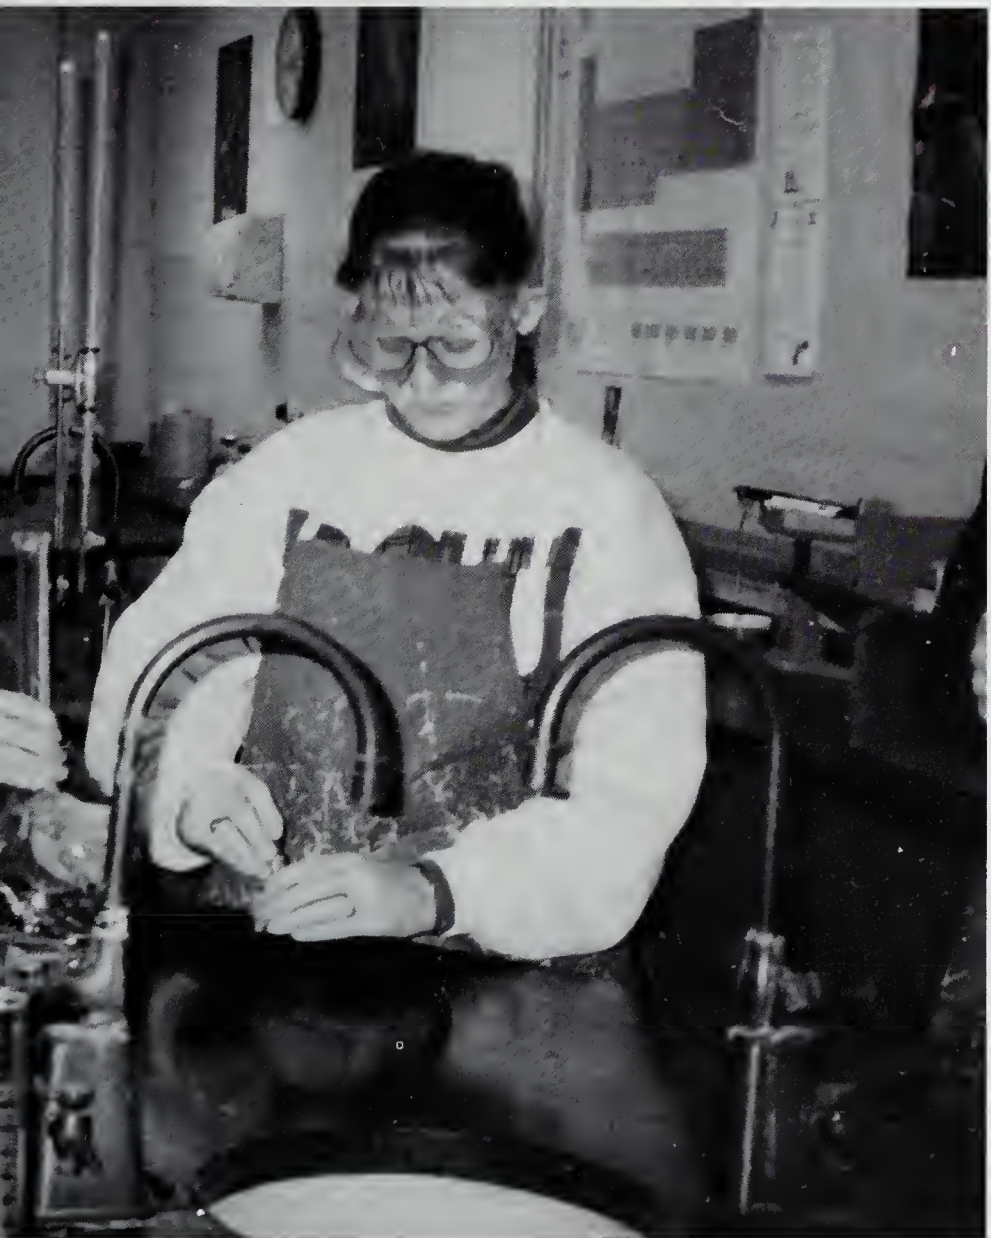

LICING AND DICING

Putting a scalpel to a worm, Hillary Layman gets ready to dissect. Hillary's opinion was, "The worm was creepy but fun to dissect."

CUTTING IT UP

Dissecting a cat, Jason Varner, Billy Carter, Jennifer Robertson, Jennifer Kohler, and Sara Burritt study the systems of the cat. This was a project to end the unit they were studying in Biology II.

MIXING IT UP

Jonathan Sims, Dallas Hill, and Lori Robertson mix up a solution during a project in chemistry in the community. "The hardest part in the class was the tests," said Jonathan.

DIFFERENT SIDES

Student Life

Velvety vibrations

A trio of malodious guitar sounds flowing from the fingers of Derek Hanger, Michael Pauly, and Micah Muller fill the ears of Adam Shifflett and Jesse Van Belkum. There were many guitar players in our school, and every now and again they took a break from their studies and broke the silence.

Paddle putdowns

Karen Hutcherson puts down her ping pong paddle and gets perky! Some students braved the bad weather and went to Christmas parties where they engaged in heaps of fun activities and games.

Cafeteria clown
Ryan Wood shows his food while Matt Howlett swallows hard. Students' mouths were working a mile a minute in order to rang all too soon.

Duck face
Spencer Nice makes a duck face as he up many students' extra time, not just those with acting ability.

HOME COMING BIZARRE

During the Homecoming week, band members get ready for the half-time show, football players prepare for the game, and other students get ready for the dance.

Ready to Trick-or-Treat

Making Beautiful Music

Greg Nichols plays his cymbals during the band show. Band members gave a performance during the Homecoming game and at half-time, even though the weather was cold!

Riding in the Parade

Chris Berry, Leah Pugh, Beth Gum, Elizabeth Lambert, Holly Harman, and Erin Campbell ride on the senior float during the Homecoming parade. The seniors proved they were the class that had the most spirit by buying the most links during Spirit Week.

A Boost for a Big Win

Ready for the game, Jeremiah Marshall, Shawn Baska, Jason Almarode, Ryan Wood, and Scott Yancey stand in line waiting to enter the gym for the pep rally. The pep rally was held to support all fall sports and team members.

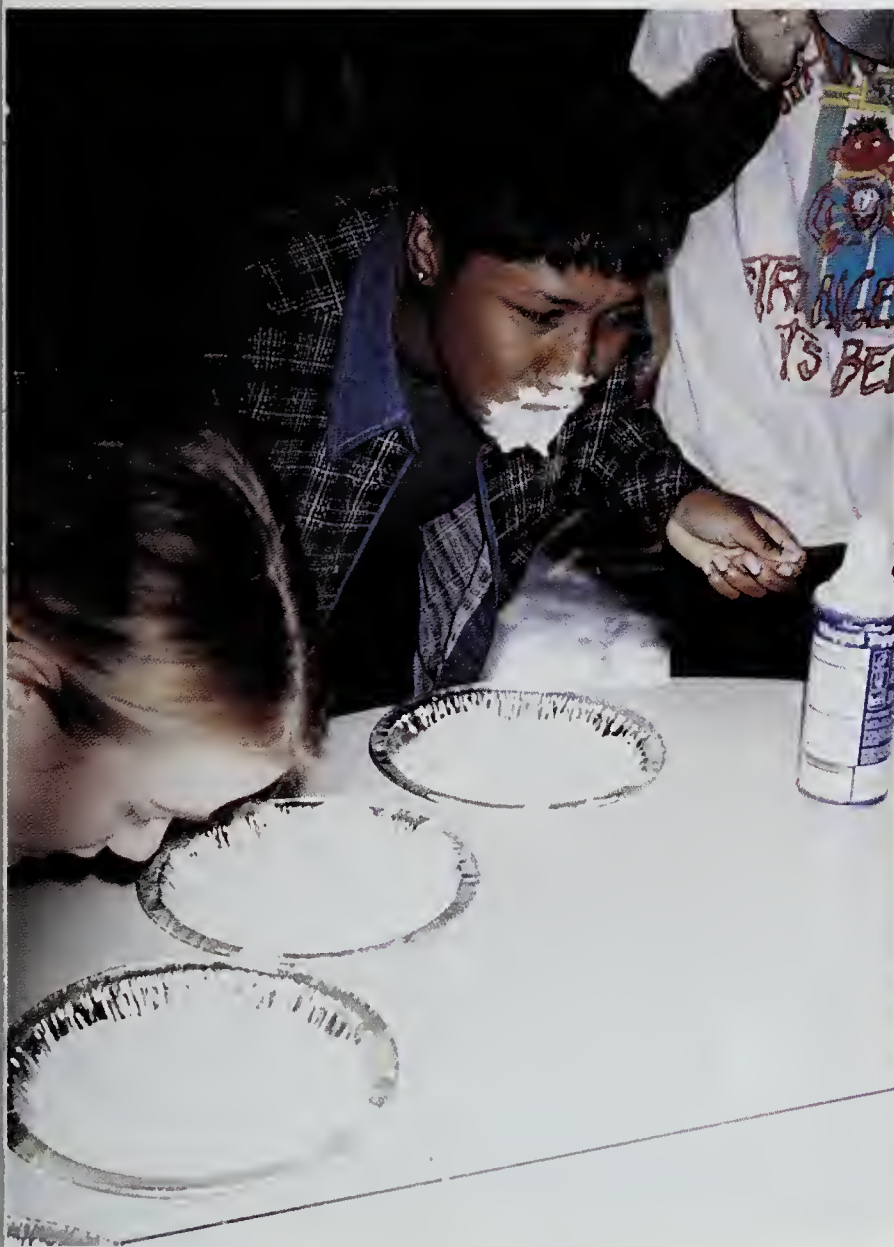

Ready for Bedtime

Cassie Beaty, Kari Housh, Krystal Cairns, and Leigh Ann Taylor sit in class during Spirit Week, while Cassie wears her seal slippers on Slipper Day. Large animal slippers were the favorite style for the few who wore slippers.

Flushing the Flucos

Ashanti Wilson, Kara Hackney, Cody Anderson, and Chrissy Woods are armed and ready to win the football game. The NAHS float came in first place in the competition.

Slip in the Face

Niakietia Goins and Erin Campbell gobble whip cream during a relay race during the pep rally. This was the first relay race held to see which class had the most spirit.

All Smiles

Kelly Burkholder, Miriah Breuer, Brandi Hatfield, and Letisha Sorrells talk and cheer for the football team. The team's early lead contributed greatly to their enthusiasm.

A student poll shows that most students think our school needs more school spirit.

Is Spirit Week Dead?

Lack of school spirit does not defeat team

It was the week of October 7 — Spirit Week. One had to search hard to find anyone with clothing turned inside out or wearing bedroom slippers. Even though we had a lack of spirit during Spirit Week, it did not discourage the football players. Friday night, October 11, we had a big win against the Fluvanna Flucos. There was also a respectable turnout at the dance on Saturday night. The lack of spirit in this school, especially during Spirit Week, did not affect the football players or those attending the dance at the end of the week.

Talking to Pass the Time Away
Sitting and resting, Jeremy Brown, Valerie Lockhart, Angie Fretwell, and her date talk during the Homecoming dance. Many students could be found sitting against the wall to pass time because the general complaint was there were not enough slow songs.

Horsing Around
Cameron Napier and Luke Gragg relax during the third quarter. Band members stood out in the cold every Friday night at home games for our football team, but were given free time during the third quarter to goof off.

"I didn't expect to win because of the people I was up against," said Jeff Baska.

"The best thing about being king is representing my senior class."

"I have not been on the court in previous years."

"I did not expect to win because I do not think of myself as Ms. Popularity," said Elizabeth Hogan.

"My favorite thing about being queen is that I received a crown."

"I was on the court my junior year too."

Smiling and Laughing
At the bonfire, Christy Grapes, Elizabeth McHaffa, and Tabitha Bryant smile and say "hi" to the camera. "It would have been better, if it wasn't raining, but I had a good time anyway," said Elizabeth.

Running with Spirit
Tara Campbell carries spirit links that were bought by each class. There was a competition between the classes to see who bought the most and the seniors won.

Charging the Enemy
Speeding on to the field, Ryan Wood (66), Shawn Hoysradt (52), and Jeremiah Marshall (80), enter the stadium psyched and ready to win. Loud cheers from the crowd inspired the boys to win.

Drunken flapper

Katie Yancey sets down her bottle of booze, carried everywhere on set in order to create the drunken effect needed to play Mrs. Hannagin. She also sported one of two flapper gowns at all times to get the out-of-date, old spinster look.

It ain't just acting

Steffi Winter paints one of the many flats built in order to add visual effects to the play. Many audience members remarked that the scenery "made the play!"

Annie

Art Attack

Students show the community that they're good for more than just homeruns and touch-downs.

Balancing act

Doing her homework backstage, Kara Hackney is using her time the only way she can. Everyone who participated in the performance had to mediate a war between Annie and schoolwork and for some schoolwork lost.

Just drillin'

The ringleader of the Hard Labor Society (HLS), Greg Winkler, is drilling on the scenery as Steve Losh assists. The HLS, composed of Greg Winkler, Ms. Jennifer Vaughn, Kara Hackney, Steffi Winters, Kim Oliver, Mike Dove, Greg Hess, and Kelly Michaud, worked at all hours of the night in order to finish the scenery on time.

Cast catastrophe

Sibohan Smith (Grace) reads from a script as Brian Moore (Daddy Warbucks) looks off into the audience and Chrissy Buchanan (Annie) flashes her pearly whites. Sibohan was a last minute fill in for Erin Campbell who became ill the night before the performance.

Sweet as a sugarplum

Leslie Smith is dancing through our heads as the sugarplum in the Nutcracker. Her partner did not show up until the week of the performance, giving her only five days to practice.

Foreign Exchange

Looking from all different sides.

There are many similarities and many differences between Stuarts Draft and the places in which our foreign exchange students live. Javier Hernandez is from the Island of Tenerife. It has a tropical climate and the ocean is warm all year round. Even though Javier would rather have his hot weather, he thinks Draft is pretty cool, and that's okay.

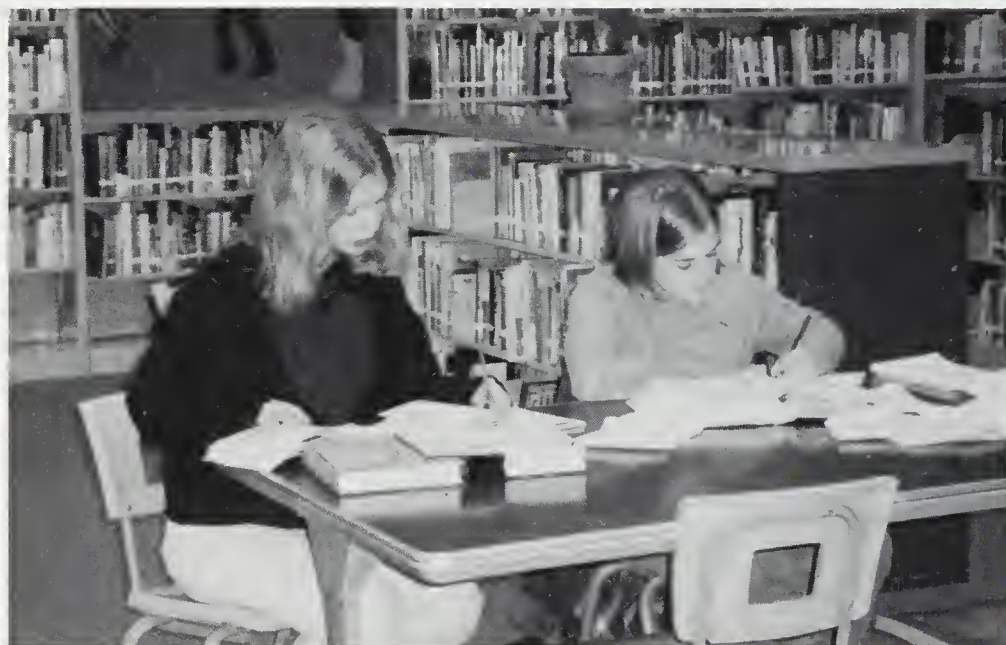

Both Steffi Winter, who is from Greiz, Germany, and Irina Afansgeba, who is from Russia, agree that people here are very friendly.

Schools in the countries of the exchange students are quite different from ours. Steffi's school is different because the students go to different classes, but they stay in one classroom and study different subjects.

Javier says that his school in Spain is more serious and challenging. Many of the sports that are played here are also played in their schools, but sports are not taken as seriously as they are here. In many ways, we do the same things as they do.

Sit a spell...

Irina Afansgeba takes a break from her schedule to relax in the library. She came from Russia to experience new things.

Time to study...

Marianne Harman and Irina Afanasgeba catch up on their class work in the library. Irina took an English class to improve her speaking and writing skills.

Strike a pose...

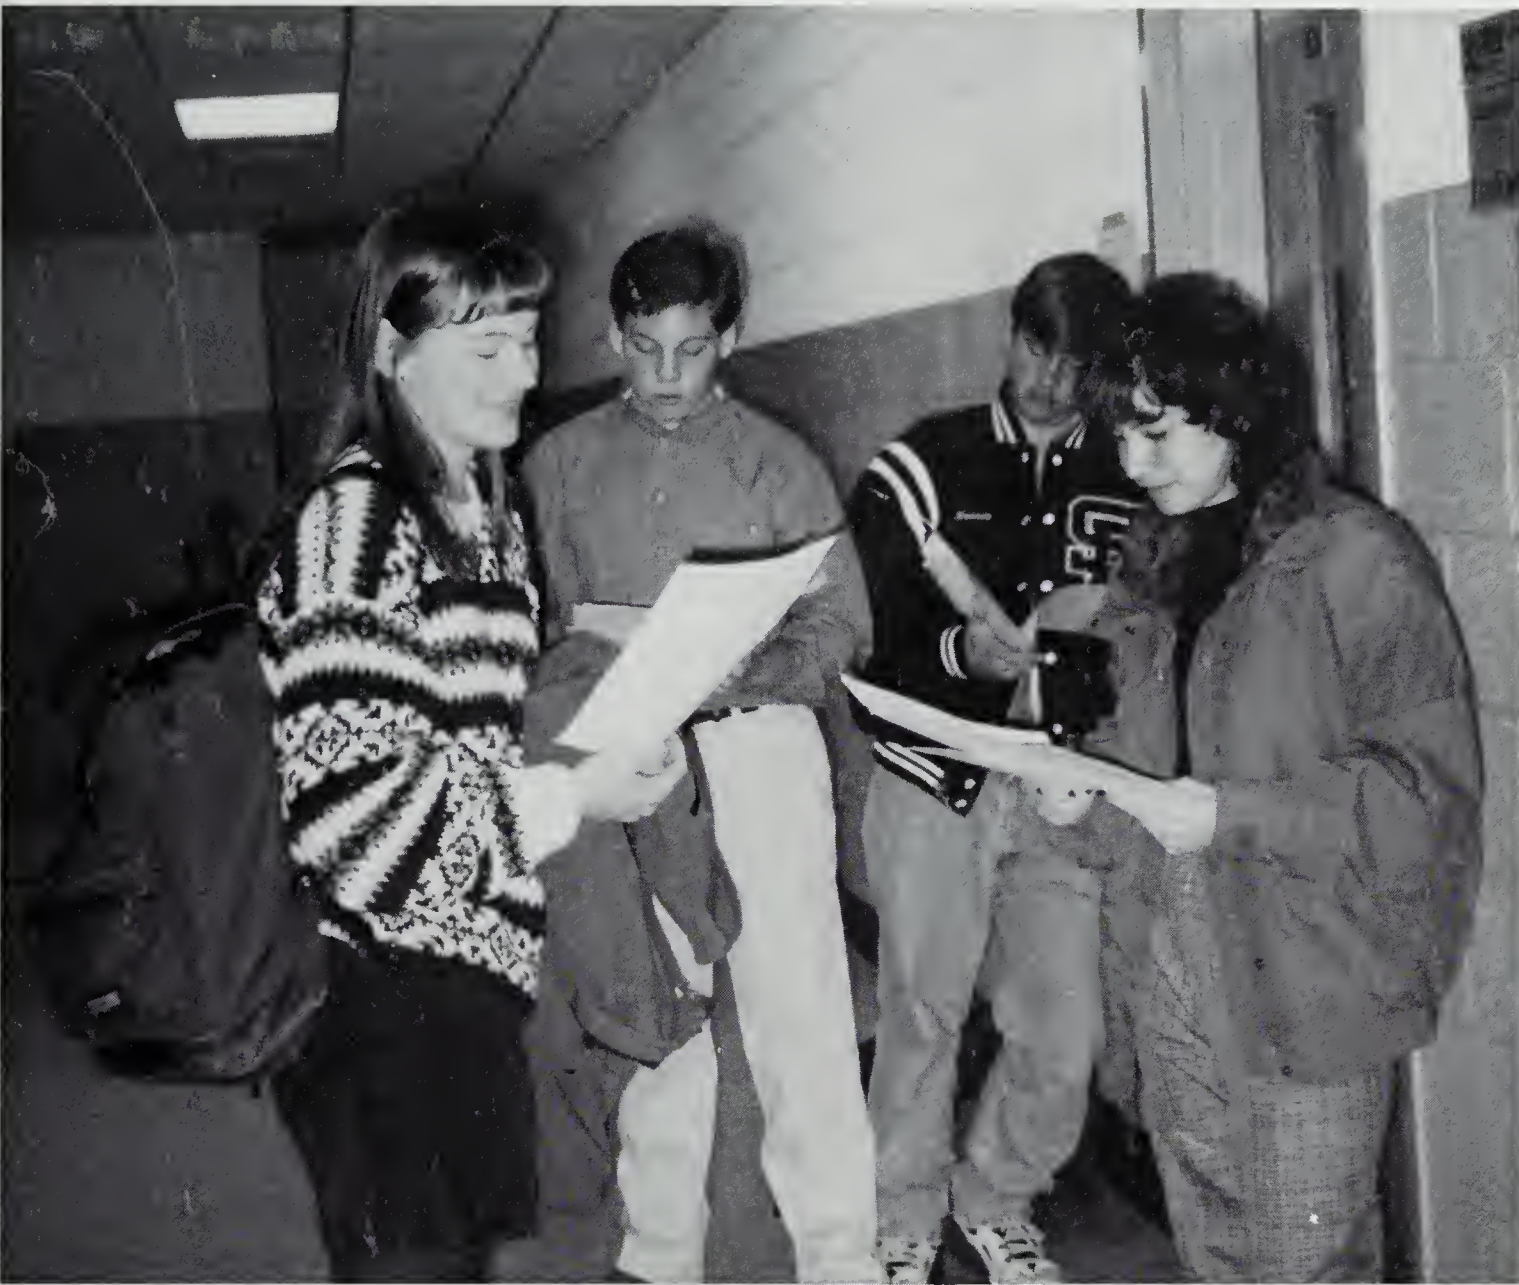

Steffi Winter takes time to pose for a picture. Steffi commented that our school is very different from the school in her small town in Germany.

Great pals...

Javier Hernandez takes a break from Mr. Patterson's class to talk with Jessi Patterson and Shawn Baska. Javi, as his friends call him, came from the Canary Islands.

Practice makes perfect... Wendy Campbell and Janice Woodard practice The True Story of Cinderella as Jeff Carr and Michael Hartman read a selection from Private Wars before the competition at Wilson. Wendy played the part of Druella and Janice played Anastasia. They won first place in the meet against Wilson.

Glaring girl... Joni Stuart shows expression as Laurel Woodworth and she prepare for Serious Dramatic Interpretation. This was their first year in forensics.

Typical tourists

Chillin' in front of a fountain, Boots Howdyshell, Ramona Conner, Brandy Miller, Derik Huffman, Justina Campbell, and Mr. Fred Keeling take a quick break from their busy schedule. Mr. Keeling said, "I gave the kids an assignment to find the size of the Apollo 13 capsule," but nobody found the answer.

Movin' on Up

Draft leaves the countryside behind and experiences the excitement of city life.

Art students and Wecepees declared a truce for a day for a trip to Washington, D.C. All the students got the chance to ride on the metro and took a tour through the FBI building. Ms. Jennifer Vaughan and Mrs. Margaret Miller concentrated in showing their students the art museums and Mr. Jim Almarode gave his group a well rounded tour, from art museums to the Washington Monument. Students loved the little getaway and cooperated so well that there were thoughts of taking more trips.

Cheese!

Ashanti Wilson and Elizabeth Hogan stop walking to have a Kodak moment. Students got lots of exercise walking to each museum, and although it was exhausting, it gave students another chance to goof off with friends.

Vogue

In the National Art Gallery, Chris Berry strikes a pose while resting. Some students were eager to view the modern art, while others found the thought of sitting down more desirable.

lay. The bus ride can always be one of the best things about a trip, giving students time to laugh and relax.

FADS

What's your style?

Styles come and go. This year comfort was a big issue with clothing. Jeans were seen all around the school. The styles went from one extreme to the other, from baggy to just the right fit.

Colors didn't have to match and neither did the prints. Hairstyles ranged from long to no hair at all. When it came to fashion anything went.

Blue jeans...

Tim Hipkins, Erica Conner, Candace Pugh, and Beth Woods take a break from U.S. History to chat in the hall.

Comfort was a very important aspect of fashion.

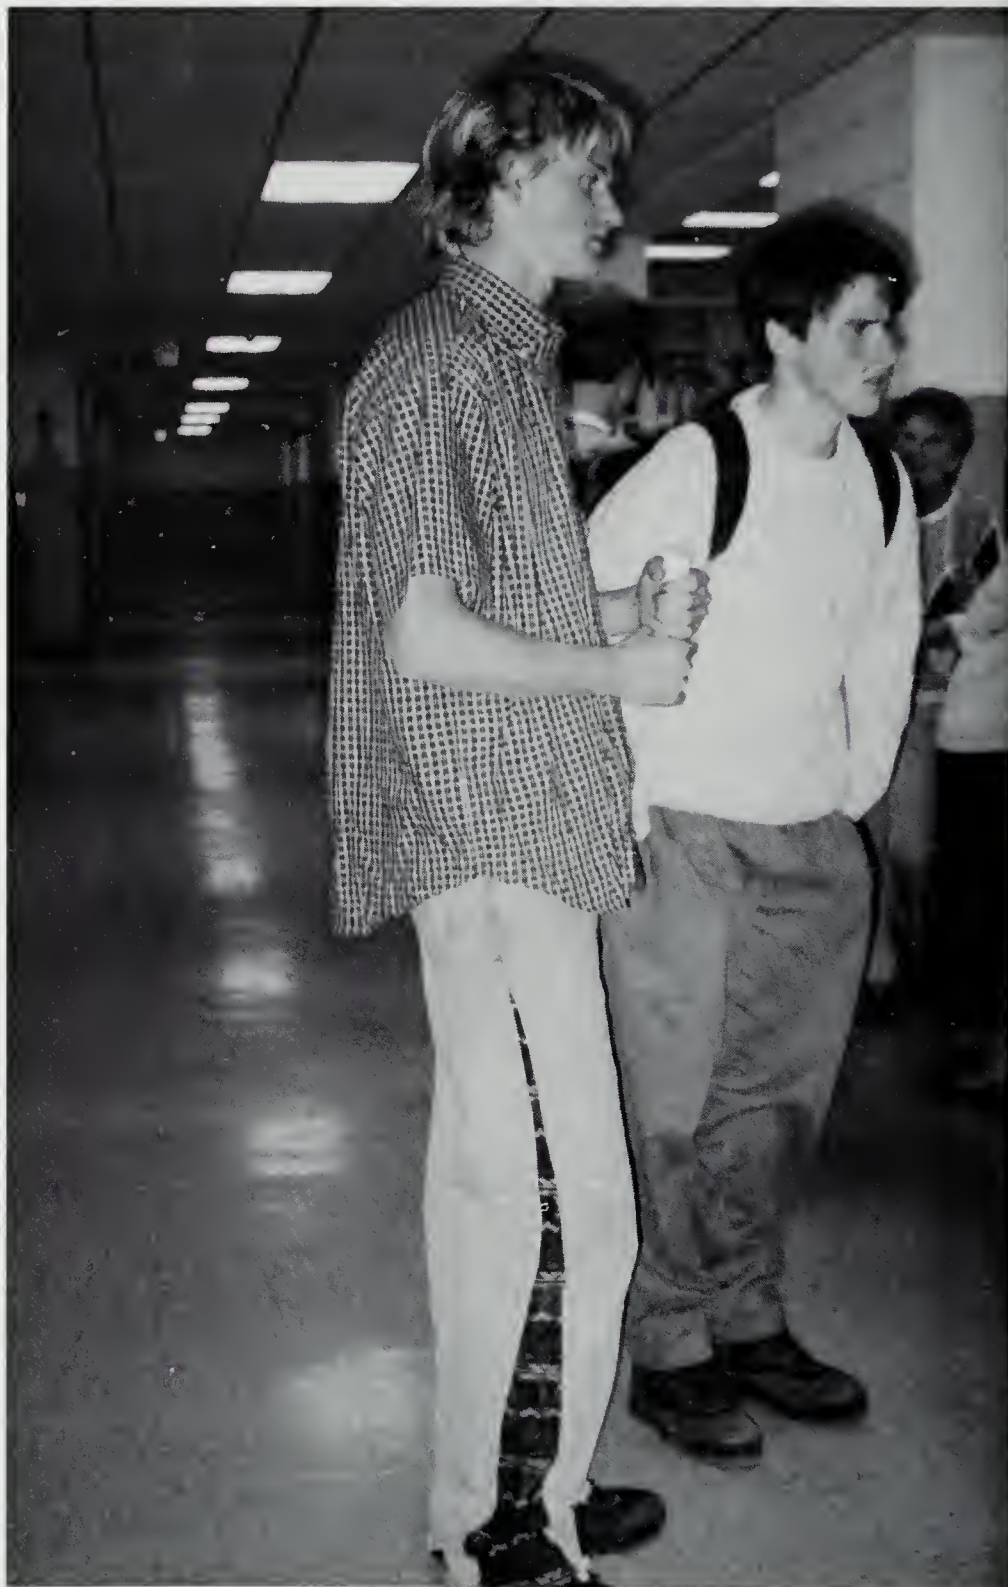

Surprise, surprise...

Michael Pauly and Kami Meeteer have had long hair for quite a while. Mike and Kami were both known for their love of art.

Overalls are overall favorite...

Tiffany Tayman is known for her very stylish way of dressing. Overalls were one of the in things to wear.

Dazed and confused...

Greg Hess shows off his bell bottom pants that are back in style, while Eamon Doherty is deep in conversation in his khakis. Greg and Eamon were both involved in Forensics.

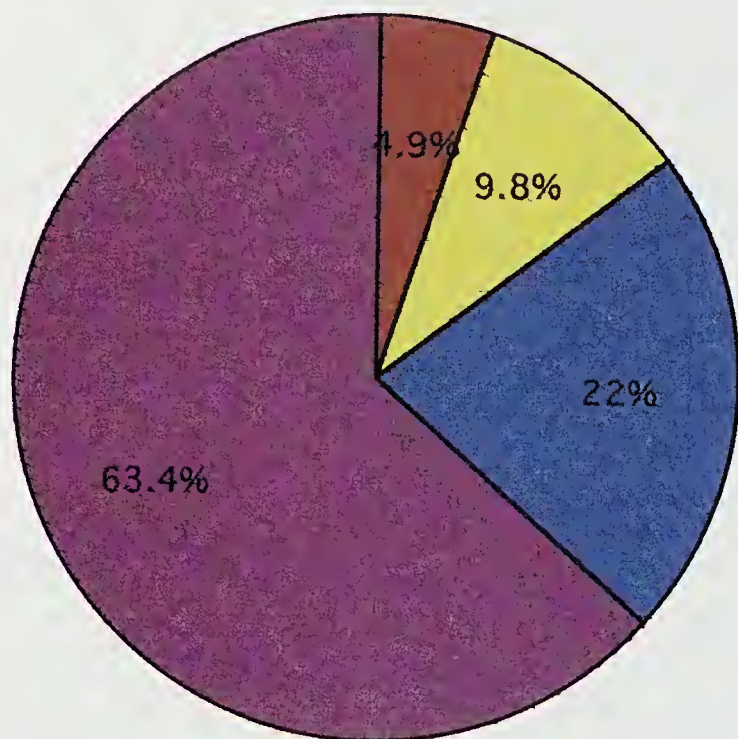

The bald and the beautiful...
Kristin Hotz, Amber Bower, and Ryan Eggleston walk along with Ashley Moran who goes with the no hair look. He and a few other freshmen took part in shaving their heads.

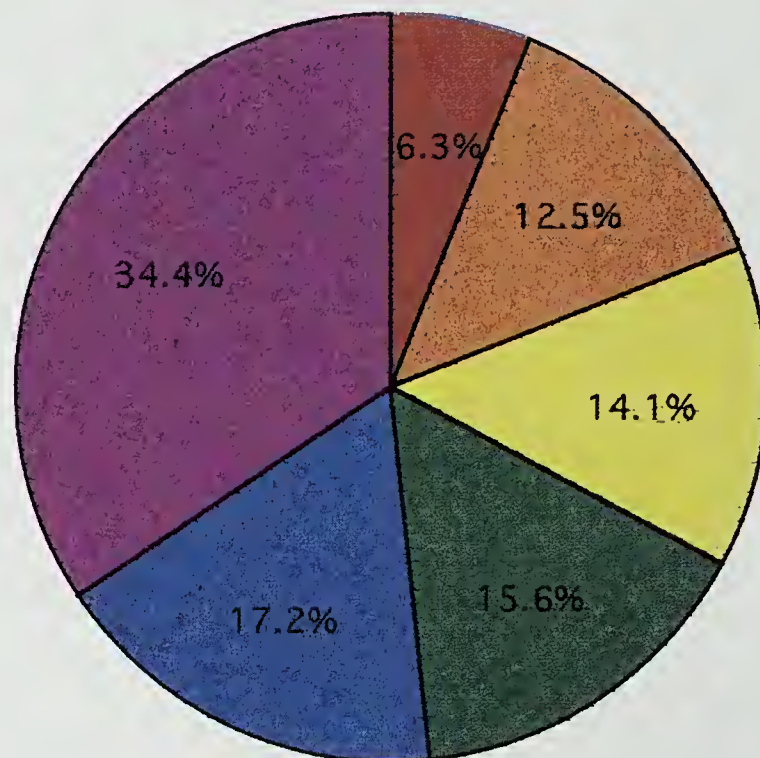

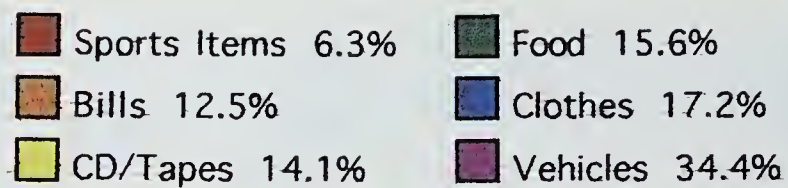

A combination of styles...
Autumn Thurnea mixes and matches many types of clothing to create her style. Autumn was known for her many creative outfits.

A style all their own...
Ivy Kindig, Jessica Corbin, and Noirin Quillen get ready for physics class to begin. Ivy was known for her unique sense of style. Noirin and Jessica both liked to try different hair styles.

Summer Fun

The Survey Says....

Before you figure out what you are going to spend your money on, you have to have money. So where are you going to get your money? Don't stick out your hands— a job of course. Then you'll need a vacation from that job because you know how hard you work. Also, what about the time you're not at work, or school, where are you going to go to relax?

We asked you all of these questions and found out just how you balance your life. Now check out how your classmates responded.

At the gas station, Sara Greenmun feeds her hungry car gasoline. Students told the polls that one area they spent money on was automobiles. Unfortunately gas prices only seemed to rise.

After The Variety Show's dress rehearsal, Ryhan Golden gets up close and personal with a new kill. Students from all grades spent many hours hunting all kinds of animals, such as deer, doves, and squirrels.

"My favorite summer vacation is when my entire family goes to the beach. Myrtle Beach is definitely the best beach."

-Lindsey N. Yancey

"I like to go on long bike rides through the forests when my family goes to the mountains during summer vacations."

-Rodney Nice

"My favorite place to go on a family vacation is Florida. We go to Disney World and then to the beach."

-Heather Campbell

Like the majority of students, Kelly Burkholder demonstrates a responsible, mature attitude while at her part-time job. McDonalds, K-Mart, and Dairy Queen were the three most popular places to work.

ON THE INSIDE

People

Happy Birthday!

Nikki Leger celebrates her eighteenth birthday Winnie the Pooh style with family and friends, Joey Leger and Jeremy Smith. Nikki was surprised when the table was set by her friends, ready to party. The guys at the table wanted no part of the festivities until they saw the angel food cake.

Making the rounds
Kari Housh and Rachel Wingfield visit friends in the cafeteria. Since lunch was the only time to really relax during the

Goofing off

In the Mac lab, Ashley Garner and Dan Layne take a break from dissecting on the computers. The computer dissection programs helped eliminate the gruesome mess of slimy body parts slung all over the science tables.

Meeting in the middle

Maria Schiano and Sara Higgins try fifteenth - sixteenth century English country dancing while Amanda Rexrode looks on. Every other Wednesday in Mrs.

Swortzel's English class was British Culture Day. Mr. Leland Ticknor taught the students in Mrs. Swortzel's and Ms. Kelly's classes the ancient dance.

lectic day, many socialized with not only heir lunch gang, but buddies at other ables too.

Rocking around the clock
Tim Hipkins gets cozy in the rocking chair in the library. The library was a popular hangout in the morning before the bell rang and a getaway for students during the day.

Year by year
Robert Brooks draws a time line in science class. The halls were covered with massive sheets of paper, rulers, markers, and students scurrying to and fro. The halls were a busy place because some projects were just too big for the classrooms.

Cool as a cucumber
Down on the floor, Jay Snyder smiles up at the camera. The floor was a nice cool spot to just plop down and unwind, stretching out cramped muscles after sitting all day in uncomfortable desks.

The class of 1997 showed a wide diversity in its future plans. Students planned on going into everything from the medical field to becoming a professional singer. Many planned on going straight into the work force. These students sought jobs such as mechanics and cosmetologists. Students went to Valley Vo-Tech to learn these trades during their junior and senior years. While at Vo-Tech they trained in vocational-technical fields. A select few participated in the Governor's School programs.

The WECEP program helped them find jobs while in school to give them on-the-job experience. The mentorship program offered students the opportunity to work off campus in fields of interest such as teaching, veterinary medicine, and wild life management.

The class of 1997 had every opportunity to be the most highly prepared students to enter the "real world" after graduation.

Cheers!

Sherri Brooks teaches Ms. Ford's English class a cheer, and Holly Shipp joins in. Sherri has been a football cheerleader all four years of high school.

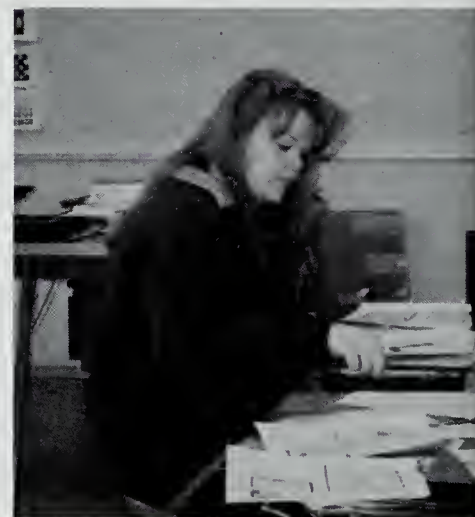

Finally Graduating!

Interior Design

Alycia Ratwik is designing the inside of a house in her Housing and Interior Design class. "Decorating is not as easy as it looks," said Alycia.

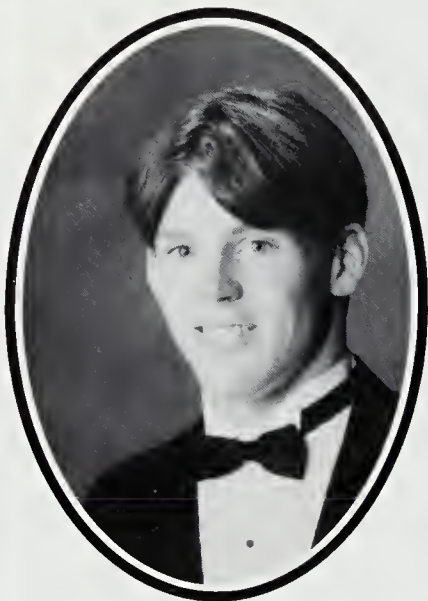

The Sculptor
Sarah Goldsworthy chisels a sculpture during art class. Sarah was selected for membership in National Art Honor Society in her freshman year.

Sweet Dreams
Sean Fairchild relaxes during a poetry reading. The poets listened to and critiqued students' writing as well as reading their own work.

Teaching the Class
Stacie Hatch teaches Ms. Ford's class how to make a macrame necklace. She also demonstrated how to make these necklaces at the Art Jamboree.

Sarah Goldsworthy flips through her notebook during Mrs. Harris' first block. This was Mrs. Harris' first year teaching Housing and Interior Design at our school.

Free at Last!!
Jeremy Smith takes time to smile, because he will no longer have to follow the rules he has had to observe for the past four years. Along with his fellow classmates, Jeremy was looking forward to his next chapter of life.

Shear Will Power/Determination

Jason Almarode uses all his energy to out last the bungee cord at the After Prom Party. This was the first year to have the bungee run obstacle, which allowed students to compete against each other.

ON THE SIDELINES

Sports

All smiles
Sara Higgins and Lindsey N. Yancey smile for the camera on their way to the Fluvanna game. Sara played center field and third base while Lindsey was a right fielder.

Dodging the Defense
Keith Hoy dribbles around a Nelson County defender. This was Keith's first year on the JV team.

Icing Down
Travis Humphreys ices down his arm after the baseball marathon fundraiser. "I played every position but shortstop and right field," said Travis.

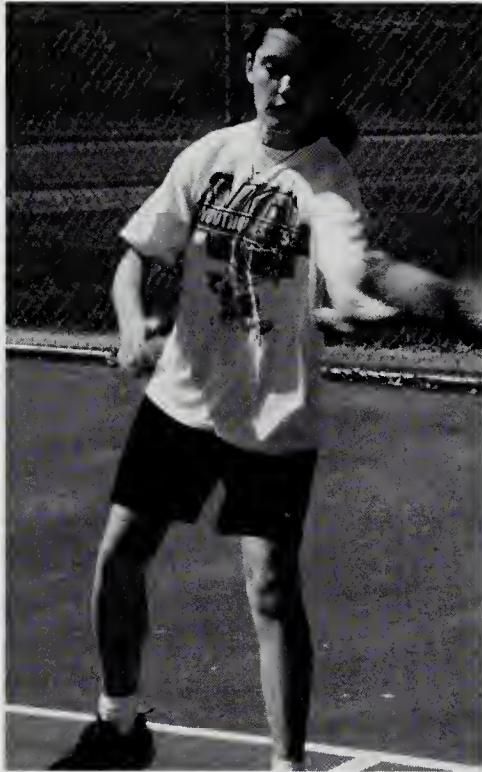

Sideline Conference

Senior Scott Yancey gives pointers to sophomore Jeremiah Marshall. Scott was not in uniform because he had recently injured himself.

Practicing her Forehand

With her eyes closed, Jenny Snyder swings her racket to hit the ball. Jenny stated, "This was my first year in tennis and I liked it, except when you had to sit around, that was boring."

Down, Set, Bump

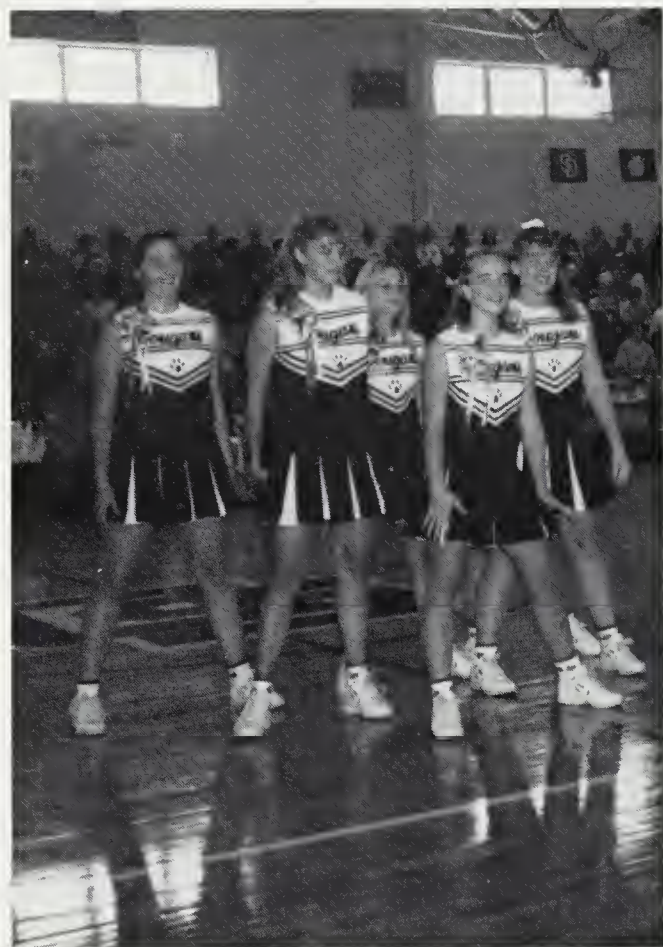

Niakietia Gions hunkers down into a ready position. "In the back row was my favorite spot," said Niakietia.

Huffing Home

Laurel Woodworth races to the finish line during a track meet with Riverheads. This was Laurel's second year on the track team.

Sarah Wheeler, Sylvia Randall, Morgan Samples, Stacey McGarry, and Lindsay Kennedy stand ready to do a cheer during the pep rally. All the girls commented that they had fun this season.

Amanda Fitzgerald, Nikki Roadcap, Kelli Miller, Gina Brubaker, and Jennifer Sprouse do a stunt for the cheer "The Cougars Like To Go" during the game with Fluvanna.

Amanda and Kelli both said that it was easy being a base for the stunts.

Erica Conner, Lindsay Kennedy, Sylvia Randall, Sarah Wheeler, and Stacey McGarry sit on the bleachers in the Loudon County gymnasium before a regional basketball game. The girls came in second place in the cheerleading competition at Buena Vista. The boys' basketball cheerleaders and the football cheerleaders tied for third in the cheerleading competition.

Even though there were not enough boys to make a team after Neil was injured, Grant Burkholder attempts to finish high in the rankings. When asked about how the low number of boys affected the team, he said, "I had my doubts at first, but after a few days I realized that we had a strong team, and I knew the season would go well, though most of our losses did come from the lack of runners."

Melissa Steele and Amy McGrath run side by side during the meet with Waynesboro. Some runners chose to run together and encourage each other.

Senior Sara Burritt tries to stay ahead of the competition during the District meet at Ridgeview Park. Being the only senior on the team, who had run before, Sara was very helpful to Coach Miller in familiarizing her with what happens at meets and techniques other coaches have used.

Kickin' it around

The veterans and the new kids on the block have mediocre seasons

This spring was the first year we had a girls' soccer team. Although the team was inexperienced, they were very enthusiastic. Despite the fact they won only two matches and tied another one, they never gave up. Of course winning was the main objective, but learning the fundamentals was just as important. Coach Hedderich commended the girls for their hard work and effort.

Cheryl McDowell was named Most Improved Player, Amanda Rexrode was winner of the Coaches Award, and Mandy Hesson was named the Most Valuable Player.

With a man on, Noirin Quillen (6) attempts to score a goal. Noirin was one of the more aggressive players on the team.

Displaying her fancy foot work, Sally McGrath (8) tries to pass the ball to a teammate. When asked about her future soccer plans Sally said, "I plan to return next year, and this summer and fall we [the team] will play in leagues."

Odds and Ends

Astonished and amazed students gather around Bobby Petrecelli. Mr. Petrecelli talked to juniors and seniors about his experience with alcohol, making many students think twice about drinking and driving.

Students in Mrs. Swortzel's class enjoy pieces of greasy, chewy pizza. This was their reward for winning the can drive held first semester.

Helping feed a seed, Kimmy Lowe waters a thirsty plant. Students in FFA taught local fourth graders about the fun facts of farming.

Kami Meeteer touches the Van de Graff which sends her hair flying. Students in Mr. Patterson's classes enjoyed the variety of activities that he had planned for them.

Amanda McClenny hangs up a poster promoting no drinking after prom. The

"You have the right to remain sober" posters were displayed all over the school.

Stephen Lawrence shows extreme bravery as he holds a python around his neck. The scaley snake was part of the circus, sponsored by the Lion's Club, that came to the high school gym for students and the community to enjoy.

Siobhan Smith practices her song for the Variety Show. The show allowed students to display their many diverse talents, from singing, to ballet, to poetry. This event was held to raise money for the choir's trip to Florida.

Mrs. Almarode displays perfect box-out position as she knocks Aaron Myers out of the way. The sophomore class hosted a student-faculty basketball game in order to raise money for next year's prom.

A Midsummer Night's DREAM

Truly dreamy, the '97 Prom, held at Mary Baldwin's ball room in Staunton, proved to be a big hit. Decorated with purple and gold streamers, gossamer, balloons, and confetti this surely seemed like A Midsummer Night's Dream. Tables were adorned with a long stem glass which held a candle and was ringed with flowers. The DJ played a variety of music, and dancers were excited by the atmosphere the bubble machine created. To cool off, many dancers wandered out to the terrace or enjoyed refreshments from the buffet.

Before the dance, some seniors mentioned they would have rather had the Prom in the school gym, while others stated they felt more grown up having Prom in a college ballroom. For many this truly was A Midsummer Night's Dream.

Chris Doyle and Wes Shifflett make a bridge for Jeff Baska, Sylvia Randall, Tonya Schages, and Kim Sims to go under. Many types of dancing were seen during the night.

Shane Bartley gets down to an Alan Jackson song. Shane was one of the many non-stop dancers throughout the night.

Adorned with tuxes and pretty dresses, this sea of faces represents the '97 Prom. Many stated that the variety of music, the decorations, and those who attended made this an enjoyable Prom.

Boots Howdyshell and Amy Balser's date dip her. Boots, Amy, and her date were a few of many who said they enjoyed Prom.

Derek Hennigan and Kati Patterson wait patiently for their Prom pictures. The large demand for Prom pictures made the line long, but people wanted one more way to hold the memories of this night.

Phillip Frazier does his version of "YMCA". Although Phillip graduated in January, he still took part in the Prom celebration.

King and Queen Spencer Nice and Ashanti Wilson are accompanied by their court, Brandon Davies and Annie Shirley. All four wore their sashes proudly.

Lacie White and Jackie Stinnett watch as Mike Prickett and Heather Brannock head to the dance floor. Mary Baldwin's ballroom was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Go with the Flow Blast of '97

Wendy Campbell and Doug Bunch are awestruck by the decorations at the After Prom party. Much work was put into the organization of this annual event by the Academic Boosters Club.

Kristen Carins tries to blind Josh Ferris and Chad Clayton with bubbles. After regaining their sight, they all moved to the dance floor to enjoy more music.

Johanna Ratliff watches intently as people throw basketballs at the ceiling in order to knock down the parachute. The parachute was filled with balloons, some of which contained money.

Holly Marion takes a spin on the gyroscope. This was one of the most popular activities.

Craig Smith enjoys a soft drink as the man in the moon. Craig was taking a break from dancing.

Sherri Mays and Alicia Ratwick raid the snack table. There was plenty of food of all types.

Mike Floyd finishes his jousting match, the victor over Mike Trippeer. The gladiator joust was a popular activity at the party.

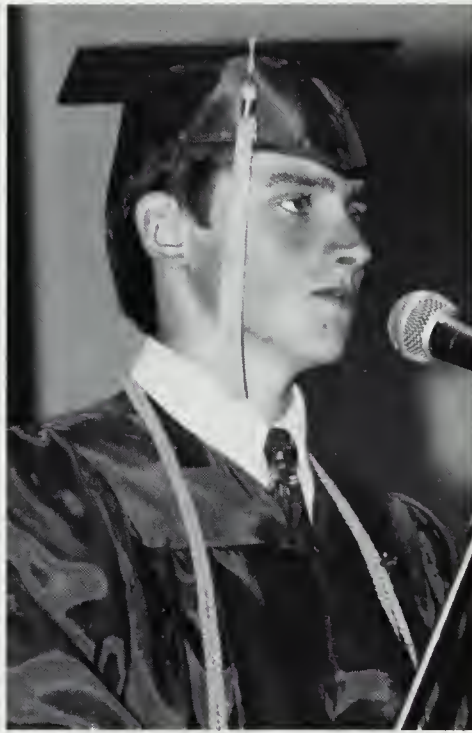

David Frantz strums the night away with his guitar. Along with a DJ and live band, the guitar was another form of music.

With her hands on her hips, Crystal Davis ponders what to do next. The gyroscope, gladiator joust, bungee run, and dancing were many of the activities to choose from.

Salutatorian Eamon Doherty offers a warm welcome to the parents, friends and neighbors of his fellow graduates attending the emotional ceremony. He joked that "some of the teachers may have been praying for this day as much as we have."

Senior Class President Shelly Robb introduces guest speaker Dr. June Cohron. Later Shelly passed the gavel into the waiting hands of John Almarode, who will be the president of the class of 1998.

Government teacher Mrs. Linda Weekly receives a warm hug from senior Scott Campbell. After it was all over and done with, many seniors realized they were going to miss some of their old teachers.

Senior Steve Losh fills the hall with his melodious song "Years Ago" that he composed himself for the senior class. He received a standing ovation. Soon after the ceremony Steve planned to take a trip to Nashville to try his luck in the music business.

Valedictorian Ashley Johnson delivers a tearful message to her peers. Ashley's speech was inspired by a children's book by Shel Silverstein called The Missing Piece.

Lucia Schiano adjusts her mortarboard before she enters the hall to be given her diploma. That was another one of the many worries seniors had: how to keep their hats from falling off.

Positive Advice

Our 27th commencement ceremony was held at Expoland on June 5 to honor a distinguished class of seniors. The commencement produced many laughs but also many tears. Dr. June Cohron, a 1984 graduate of Stuarts Draft High School, who furthered her education in veterinary medicine and now owns the Animal Hospital, was the guest speaker. She told the 169 candidates for graduation that she had decided to tell them "what I wished they had told me." At first humorous, she then got serious and said, "Despite what your parents and advisors may have told you, it's OK to change jobs or majors," because as Oprah said, "Life's too short to be unhappy." She implored seniors "to establish a good reputation and do everything in their power to maintain that reputation and surround themselves with positive influences. In closing she said, "The most important thing I can tell you is don't give up. Set goals and push yourself towards them." Spencer Nice spontaneously asked the room filled to capacity to join him in a moment of prayer. He paused for a moment of silence in memory of the fellow classmates who were unable to be present. Using Shel Silverstein's children's book The Missing Piece, Valedictorian Ashley Johnson moved the entire audience with her words of advice. She told her classmates, "Enjoy the road along the way and always strive for something more."

After the commencement ceremony Sabrina Sheets receives a rose, along with many hugs and congratulations. The annex hall was crowded with many friends and well wishers.

Adrenalin pumping through their veins, Scott Felts, Eric Fitzgerald, and Katie Finnegan anticipate the announcement that it is time to form their lines. Seniors got out of school on Thursday in order to practice so they would be more comfortable with the routine.

Matt Howlett and Chris Hughes reminisce with Mr. Fred Keeling, as Michael Pauly strikes a pose for the camera. Graduates arrived early to the ceremony in order to gather themselves and release their last minute jitters.

Sarah Simonsen blows bubbles during the graduation ceremony. It was very hard to sit through the ceremony while all the other students were waiting to receive their diplomas.

Grateful that it is all over, Angie Gragg hurriedly removes her mortarboard. Angie, known for her sense of humor, kept those sitting near her smiling throughout the ceremony.

Before the ceremony begins David Lee Thompson straightens Sherri Brooks's pin as Cody Anderson looks on. These lamps of knowledge were given to everyone who had a 3.0 cumulative average throughout the year.

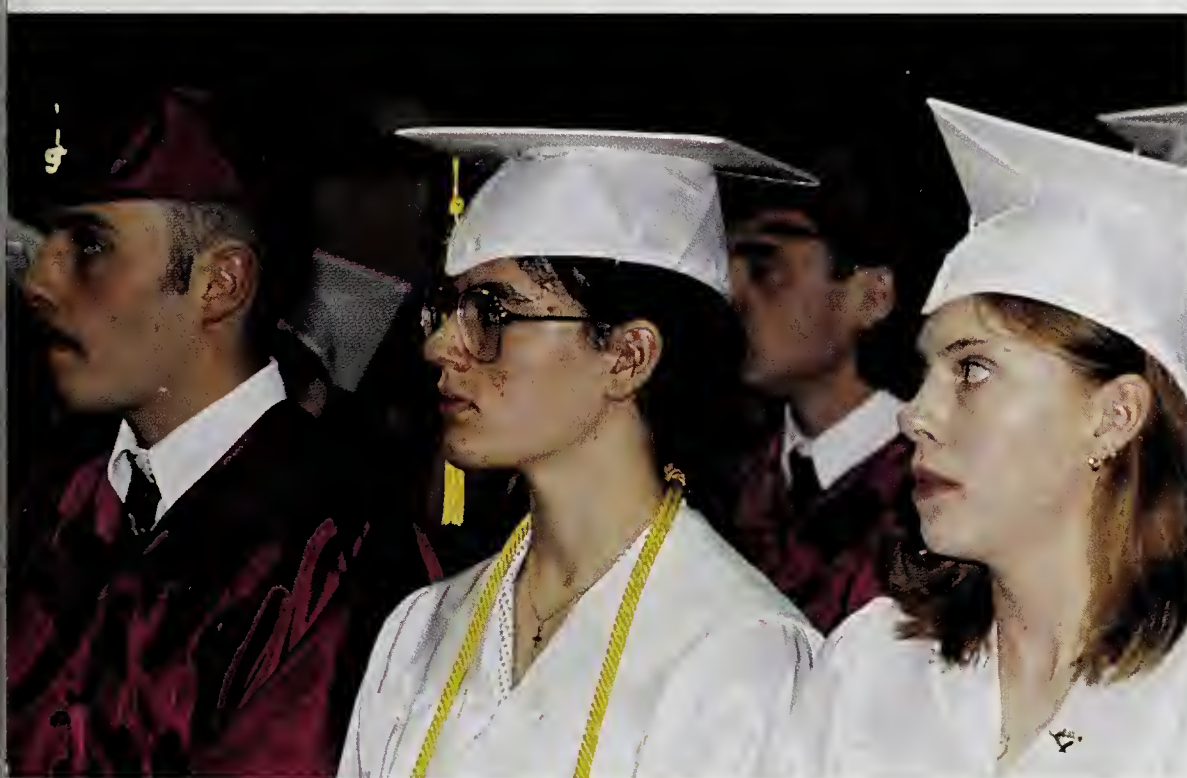

As they walk down the corridor between the annex room and the hall, Christine Coffey, Nick Coffey, and Philip Coggins release screams of joy and exhilaration. Christine received the Stuarts Draft Ruritan Club Scholarship to help pay for college.

Chris Doyle shakes Mr. Glenn Parks's hand after receiving his diploma. Many of the young ladies needed his helping hand because the stairs were a little difficult to handle in heels.

Two anxious ladies in white, Amanda Garth and Chastity Dixie discuss their plans for the night. Many seniors went camping or to the beach in order to celebrate their coming into the adult world.

As they listen to the advice of speaker Dr. June Cohron, Mike Bond, Jennifer Bottenmiller, and Renee Bowles think about their future plans. Jennifer was a junior first semester, but then decided to graduate early.

Bobby Beathe anxiously awaits the call of his name. Many seniors were very nervous about walking across the platform because they were afraid they would fall.

Amy Lucas tugs at Elizabeth McHaffa's tassel. Students were instructed to pull them tight so that they would not lose them during the ceremony.

ONE LAST GLANCE

Holly Harman follows a joyous preschooler as they head out to the playground. Holly was one of the few selected seniors who received the opportunity to participate in the Mentorship Program. This gave her a chance to see what areas she wants to work with after graduation.

Looking longingly at the top of the ladder will avail nothing; it's the climb that counts.....
